ADB

The features and benefits of term and/or universal life insurance have been presented to me by my agent. I understand that I had the opportunity to apply for a policy that offers a higher death benefit payable upon the death of the insured for any reason.

ADB offers term life insurance with an Accidental Death Benefit Rider. It provides the following benefits:

- Subject to policy provisions, the Term Life policy will pay $1,000 if the insured dies for any reason.
- The Accidental Death Benefit Rider will pay, in addition to the Term Life policy, if the insured dies from a bodily injury which is a direct result of an accident within 180 days of the injury.
- The Common Carrier Accidental Death Benefit will pay, in addition to the Term Life policy and the Accidental Death Benefit, only if the insured dies from a bodily injury which is a direct result of an accident while riding as a fare-paying passenger in a Common Carrier. The Common Carrier benefit equals the Accidental Death Benefit Rider amount.
- The amount of the Accidental Death Benefit Rider is selected upon application and will be included on the Policy Data Page of your issued policy.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

I, the undersigned Insured (and Policy Owner, if other than the Insured), acknowledge that I have read this Disclosure. I understand the above-stated benefits and will consult the policy and rider forms for all other terms, limitations, and exclusions.

This disclosure is a brief description of the Living Benefit Accelerated Death Benefit Riders. This disclosure is not an insurance contract, but only a summary of the coverage provided by these riders. There is no premium charged for these riders.

Accelerated Death Benefit payments, as described below are intended to qualify for favorable tax treatment under the Internal Revenue Code. However, the benefits received under any accelerated death benefit rider may be taxable and may adversely affect your eligibility for Medicaid or other government benefits or entitlements. You should consult your personal tax advisor regarding the tax treatment of accelerated death benefits. You should contact a qualified tax advisor or the applicable government agency such as the local State Medicaid Office for advice regarding eligibility for Medicaid or other government benefits or entitlements before requesting this benefit.

The requested Acceleration amounts will be reduced by an administrative fee of $250 and an actuarial discount, based on the insured's life expectancy at the time of the request. Calculated benefits may result in no payment.

A Full Acceleration of the death benefit will result in termination of the policy. A Partial Acceleration of the death benefit will reduce the policy face amount with a pro rata reduction of your policy's cash value, if any and the policy premium will be based on the new face amount. Any request for Partial Acceleration must be at least $5,000 and the remaining policy face amount cannot be less than $20,000.

A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records).

Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore or write to: Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 1700 G Street N.W., Washington, DC 20552.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment or to take another adverse action against you must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.
- You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your "file disclosure"). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:
  - a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your creditreport;
  - you are the victim of identity theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
  - your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
  - you are on public assistance;
  - you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.

In addition, all consumers are entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for additional information.

- You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for an explanation of dispute procedures.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.
- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.
- Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.
- You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.
- You many limit "prescreened" offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited "prescreened" offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-5-OPTOUT (1- 888-567-8688).
- You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.
- Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. For information about your federal rights, contact:
